The Peace Cross, located at the intersection of MD 450 and US Route 1 in Bladensburg, Maryland, meets Criteria Consideration F and is eligible for the National Register under Criterion C. The Peace Cross, erected 1919 to 1925 as a monument to Prince George's County residents who lost their lives serving in the United States Armed Forces in World War I is significant as an expression of the post war era's shared perception of the noble character and valor of the veterans and their cause. In addition, it is significant as an example of the work of John J. Earley. Beginning in 1916, John J. Earley (1881-1945) developed and refined the medium of "concrete mosaic" or exposed aggregate which in turn transformed the construction trade by allowing for factory fabrication of precast concrete building panels. Earley's career included the execution, and in some instances, design of notable buildings and monuments in the Washington area and throughout the country. Washington area examples include the "polychrome houses" in Silver Spring and Meridian Hill Park and the Shrine of the Sacred Heart in Washington, D.C. The Peace Cross, with its use of exposed aggregates of various colors, is an early example of the process which Earley developed and popularized.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Project File, Maryland Inventory form PG 69-16, for Earley see also Frederick Cron, The Man Who Made Concrete Beautiful, Hans Hirz and Richard Stiner Washington Deco

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY
HISTORIC SITE SUMMARY SHEET

Survey #: P.G. #69-16 Building Date: 1919-1925
Building Name: Peace Cross
Location: Annapolis Road at Route 1, Bladensburg, Maryland

Public/Park/Unoccupied/Fair/Accessible

Description:

The Peace Cross is located at the intersection of Maryland Route 450 and U.S. Route 1 in Bladensburg, surrounded by a small green space containing a flagpole and planting beds. The Cross is 40 feet high, with arms extending 5 feet from the center; it rests on a large rectangular base. Its basic materials are precast reinforced concrete and exposed aggregate, predominantly tan in color, with major decorative accents of inlaid pink granite aggregate. A border of pink aggregate outlines the north and south faces of the Cross and a band of the same material extends up and around the east and west sides. Quarter-round quadrants surround the crossing on the north and south faces, suggesting a Celtic Cross. Aggregates of contrasting colors form a medallion at the crossings in the north and south faces; the medallion features a gold star on a green laurel wreath against a blue background. The letters "U.S." have been placed in the middle of the star, which is gold against a dark red center. At the foot of the Cross, on each side of the Cross, are inscribed the words "Endurance", "Valor", "Devotion", and "Courage", in bronze letters. A bronze tablet on the south face carries the names of forty-nine residents of the County who died in the War.

Significance:

The Peace Cross is a monument to the Prince George's County residents who lost their lives while serving in the United States Armed Forces in World War I. It is significant because of its historical association with World War I and the impact of the War on the County. Ground was broken for the memorial in September of 1919. This occasion also marked the dedication of a new road between Bladensburg and Annapolis, to be named the National Defense Highway in honor of the men lost in the war. In 1922, the Commissioners of Bladensburg conveyed the Peace Cross site and the unfinished Cross to the Snyder-Farmer Post of the American Legion; in July 1925, dedication ceremonies were held for the Peace Cross, constructed at a cost of $10,000 and designed by John J. Earley of Washington, D.C. Improvements on the intersection where the Cross stands were accomplished by the State Roads Commission in the 1950's; in 1956 a longstanding controversy over ownership was settled by a Circuit Court ruling that title should be vested in the State of Maryland. The land was deeded to the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission in 1960, after which that agency carried out restoration work on the monument.

The Peace Cross is located at the intersection of Maryland Route 450 and U.S. Route 1 in Bladensburg. It stands in a traffic island at the intersection of these two busy roads, surrounded by a small green space containing a flagpole and planting beds raised within natural wooden curbs. The Cross is 40 feet high, with arms extending 5 feet from the center; it rests on a large rectangular base. Its basic materials are precast reinforced concrete and exposed aggregate, predominantly tan in color with major decorative accents of inlaid pink granite aggregate.

A border of pink aggregate outlines the north and south faces of the Cross and a band of the same material extends up and around the east and west sides. The letters "U.S." have been placed in the middle of the star, which is gold against a dark red center.

At the foot of the Cross, above each base and on each side of the Cross, are inscribed the words "Endurance", "Valor", "Devotion", and "Courage", in bronze letters. A bronze tablet on the south face carries the names of forty-nine residents of the County who died in the War.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Peace Cross is a monument to the Prince George's County residents who lost their lives while serving in the United States Armed Forces in World War I. It is significant because of its historical association with World War I and the impact of the War on the County. The impetus for the Cross came from the Prince George's County Memorial Committee, formed for the purpose of raising funds for the construction of a monument honoring the County's war dead.¹ The monument was placed on what was, in the eighteenth century, the Public Landing for the busy port of Bladensburg.

Ground was broken for the memorial in September of 1919. This occasion also marked the dedication of a new road between Bladensburg and Annapolis, to be named the National Defense Highway in honor of the men lost in the war.²

After that time, work was begun on the base of the cross, but funds were insufficient to complete it. In February 1922, the Commissioners of Bladensburg resolved to convey the Peace Cross site and the unfinished Cross to the Snyder-Farmer Post of the American Legion, which had consented to take on the task of completing the monument. The Legion Post raised the money necessary to complete the project, and, on July 12, 1925, dedication ceremonies were held for the Peace Cross, constructed at a cost of $10,000 and designed by John J. Earley of Washington, D.C.³

Improvements on the intersection where the Cross stands were accomplished by the State Roads Commission in the 1950's; in 1956 a longstanding controversy over ownership was settled by a Circuit Court ruling that title should be vested in the State of Maryland.⁴ This small parcel of land was deeded to the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission in 1960, after which that agency carried out restoration work on the monument.⁵ In July of 1975 the Snyder-Farmer-Butler Post of the American Legion hosted a special ceremony to mark the fiftieth anniversary of the Cross's dedication.
